ECHOES OF REVOLT, The Masses 1911-1917

edited by William L. O'Neill, University of Wisconsin, with an Introduction by Irving Howe, and an Afterword by Max Eastman

"A fine selection from a great magazine. The illustrations are truly superb, and the articles a fascinating mixture of brilliance, profundity, sentimentality, and nuttiness. It certainly makes any other American radical magazine of any other period look sick." — Henry F. May, University of California, Berkeley.

"A great satisfaction...for just those few years something wonderful happened, and we have a monument to it in this volume." — Granville Hicks, Saturday Review.

"A sumptuous feast...a splendid achievement." — Peter Lyon, The New York Times Book Review.

"There has never been and probably never will again be another radical magazine in the U.S. quite like The Masses," says Irving Howe. ECHOES OF REVOLT is a beautifully produced 9 x 12 book, an anthology of striking work taken straight from the pages of The Masses, America's most remarkable radical magazine. It boasts of brilliant artists and cartoonists, some of the best journalists this country ever produced, shrewd and caustic propagandists, gifted poets and writers.

In the context of the time when revolt crowded the horizon and American socialism was growing fast and was full of energy and flamboyant confidence, you meet the fine, strong journalism of John Reed; the work of Upton Sinclair, Amy Lowell, Dorothy Day, Emma Goldman, and other gifted radicals; the stories of Sherwood Anderson, and the poetry of Louis Untermeyer and Carl Sandburg; the witty editorials of Max Eastman; the famous art and cartoons of Stuart Davis, John Sloan, George Bellows, Art Young, Boardman Robinson, just as timely and savagely pertinent today. This memorable collection captures the mood of another generation when "The Masses became a rallying center — and sometimes also a combination of circus, nursery, and boxing ring — for almost everything that was then alive and irreverent in American culture" — until it was banned for its stand against the war.

304 oversized pages, abundantly illustrated, $12.95.

If your order amounts to $10.00 or more with any combination of books and offers on this brochure, you may pick this distinguished historiographical essay as your FREE book. Or, if the purchase of this book makes your order amount to $10.00 or more, you may choose one of the three other FREE books.

12. THE GATEWAY TO HISTORY, by Allan Nevins. One of America's most distinguished historians defines the scope and variety of history and outlines his views on its objectives as science and art. Professor Nevins has expanded and revised the original text of 1937, setting apart the different approaches to history and illuminating the goals, problems, and development of each. At once an antidote against superficiality and an intriguing example that realities are seldom dull when approached with an active mind and imagination. Cloth, 440 pp., $5.95.

FREE

13. DULLES OVER SUEZ, The Theory and Practice of His Diplomacy, by Herman Finer, University of Chicago. The Suez crisis of 1956 was momentous and formative for American foreign policy. "Grippingly written and largely based on interrogation of some of the principal actors in the drama, provides a blow-by-blow account of U.S. foreign policy from the decision not to finance the Aswan Dam in July 1956 to the withdrawal of the Israelis from the Gaza Strip in March 1957." — Iain MacLeod, Herald Tribune Book Week. "This is contemporary history at its best." — Emmett John Hughes. "Recommended for all students of American foreign policy." — Library Journal. Cloth, 538 pp., maps, $7.50.

14. THE RISING AMERICAN EMPIRE, by Richard W. Van Alstyne. A provocative analysis, by one of our finest historians, of the origin, emergence and growth pattern of the U.S. as a national state. "The fruit of many years of devoted scholarship in American diplomatic history . . . brings to focus the author's thinking on the challenging problem of nationalism's place in that history." — Alexander DeConde, American Historical Review. Quadrangle Paperbacks, 214 pp., $1.95.

15. THE AMERICAN GOSPEL OF SUCCESS, Individualism and Beyond, edited with an Introduction by Moses Rischin. This imaginative anthology is a rich exploration of a central theme in the American national character — from Cotton Mather in 1701, to Benjamin Franklin, P. T. Barnum, and Horatio Alger, to Riesman, Packard, Galbraith, and Burdick. "A social historian's gourmand's delight." — The New York Times. "An entertaining and fascinating book." — The Chicago Daily News. Cloth, 431 pp., $7.95.

16. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS AND AMERICAN CONTINENTAL EMPIRE: Letters, Speeches, and Papers, edited with an introductory essay by Walter LaFeber, Cornell University. "Reveals much about Adams as a man and as an American. The result is very interesting and useful. . . It should be particularly useful as supplementary reading for undergraduate courses in American diplomatic history." — Choice. "These selections . . . illuminate an intelligence of great wit and power as well as one exhibiting a quite surprising vein of charm." — Library Journal. Cloth, 157 pp., $4.50; paperbound, $1.75.

23. RED CHINA TODAY, An Eyewitness Portrait of Life in the Closed Society, by Hugo Portisch, editor-in-chief of the Vienna Kurier. By train, auto, buggy, and on foot, he journeyed through much of China, investigating virtually every area of Chinese life with astonishing depth and detail, with keen observation and sharp insight. "Substantial and thoughtful . . . a fine reporter; his book is dispassionate and highly informative." — Harper's Magazine. "One of the most exciting publishing events in SR's year." — J. R. Cominsky, publisher, Saturday Review. Cloth, 383 pp., 15 illus., map, $6.95.

24. THE STRATEGY OF SUBVERSION, Manipulating the Politics of Other Nations, by Paul W. Blackstock, University of South Carolina. The first and major analysis of the use of covert political warfare with the inescapable conclusion that the Great Powers have opened a Pandora's box that dangerously threatens the peace. "For the reader who would like to trade in his last James Bond book for the real thing . . . deserves attentive reading in the highest offices of this country." — Bernard B. Fall. "Paul Blackstock has applied scholarly methods and standards with considerable success and with many fresh disclosures." — Harry Howe Ransom, Vanderbilt University. "A major contribution." — New York Times Book Review. "Fascinating reading." — Morris Janowitz, University of Chicago. "A major contribution to a key facet of diplomacy." — Choice. Cloth, 351 pp., $7.50.

25. A MANUAL FOR DIRECT ACTION Strategy and Tactics for Civil Rights and All Other Nonviolent Protest Movements, by Martin Oppenheimer and George Lakey. Foreword by Bayard Rustin. The contents of this eminently practical and comprehensive how-to-do-it book are exciting — even astounding — from how to set up an organization to what to do in the face of cattle prods and dogs. "I expect their book will become a familiar guest in jails. . . Blunt specifics abound." — Nat Hentoff, Book Week. "A useful manual . . . a vivid, essentially valid, richly detailed account of the history, general goals, and specific operations of the non-violent protest movement in the U.S. Undergraduates could profit greatly by reading this for courses in American government, social problems, or social studies." — Choice. Cloth, 139 pp., 11 illus., $3.95; paper, $1.65.

26. AN INVITATION TO PHENOMENOLOGY, Studies in the Philosophy of Experience, edited with an Introduction by James M. Edie. Essays by Gurwitsch, Kaelin, Wild, Spiegelberg, Gotesky, Olson, Moore, Edie, Te Hennepe, Grabau, Molina, Gendlin, Schrader, Straus. "An important volume . . . ten of the contributions have direct relevance for problems in psychology or psychiatry." — Review of Existential Psychology & Psychiatry. Cloth, 286 pp., 27 illus., $6.50; paper, $2.25.

27. MEDIEVAL THOUGHT, From St. Augustine to Ockham, by Gordon Leff, Manchester University. A comprehensive introduction. "Lively, clear and interesting . . . sketches the political and social contexts in which these ideas were propounded and discussed." — Ethics. "Most clearly and interestingly related . . . his understanding of the medieval period is finely communicated." — Sociology and Social Research. Cloth, 317 pp., $5.00.

31. THE BIBLICAL ARCHAEOLOGIST

READER, edited by G. Ernest Wright, Harvard University, and David Noel Freedman, Pittsburgh Theological Seminary. The journal The Biblical Archaeologist has been happily successful in discovering scholar-writers whose work is both authoritative and highly readable. "The best of (its articles) have been gathered into (this) convenient one-volume 'Reader'." — The Catholic Biblical Quarterly. "Provides interesting and accurate information concerning the archaeology of the Old and New Testaments in very readable form . . . the scope and value of the book extend beyond the limitations of Biblical studies." — American Anthropologist. 16 pages of illustrations. Cloth, 342 pp., 24 illus., $6.75.

32. THE LITERARY IMAGINATION

Psychoanalysis and the Genius of the Writer, edited with an introduction by Hendrik M. Ruitenbeek, New York University. Eighteen famous analysts, including Freud, Eissler, Hirschmann and Wittels, "meet" some of the great writers, including Kafka, Strindberg, Goethe, Proust, Thomas Wolfe, Gide, Dostoevsky, Poe, Walt Whitman, and others, in a compelling investigation of the minds and problems of literary genius. "A brilliant, individual and deeply satisfying undertaking." — Virginia Kirkus. "This book provides many hours of stimulating reading." — Scholastic Teacher. "Useful sources of a climate of opinion which often is stimulating and provocative." — Psychiatric Quarterly. Cloth, 443 pp., 18 illus., $7.95.

33. THE AMERICAN GUIDE TO WINES

by Ruth Ellen Church, known to millions of readers as Mary Meade, food editor of The Chicago Tribune. Lively, useful, basic information on wines of the world, winemaking and home cellars. 100 delectable recipes, from beverage to dessert. Over 50 photographs, maps and charts. "Fabulous. It should be in the home of everyone who enjoys wine or would like to enjoy wine." — Morrison Wood, in the Introduction. Cloth, 272 pp., 28 illus., 6 maps, $4.50.

34. A BIOLOGY OF CRUSTACEA

by J. Green. "Will be welcomed by persons wanting a general introduction to crustacean natural history." — American Scientist. "Recommended as good reading and as a basis for better understanding of animals." — American Biology Teacher. Cloth, 180 pp., 58 fig., 4 pl., $5.75.

35. PRO FOOTBALL'S HALL OF FAME

by Arthur Daley, with a foreword by Dick McCann. The only sports book selected by ALA in 1964 as an adult book suitable for young people. "Revel in Mr. Daley's saga of the men who play for pay." — New York Times. Cloth, 248 pp., 38 ill., $4.95.

36. WORSE DAYS AND BETTER TIMES: The Folklore of the North Carolina Negro, by J. Mason Brewer. Six cent cotton and forty cent meat/How in the world can a po' man eat? "A thoroughly representative collection of Negro folk tales . . . a fun book although authentic and scholarly, that belongs in any respectable library." — Library Journal. Cloth, 192 pp., 5 ill., $5.00.

37. ALTGELD'S AMERICA, The Lincoln Ideal versus Changing Realities, by Ray Ginger. "A dramatic biography of a vivid era in the history of Chicago and the nation." — Walter Johnson, New York Times. 38. THE ANTI-FEDERALISTS, Critics of the Constitution, 1781-1788, by Jackson Turner Main. "Penetrating conclusions about the role of individuals, the content of their thought, and the means whereby they expressed opposition to the projected American Constitution." — American Historical Review. Quadrangle Paperbacks, 306 pp., $2.25.

39. APPEAL TO ARMS, A Military History of the American Revolution, by Willard M. Wallace. The outstanding one-volume military history of the Revolution. "Writes with a lively and graceful pen, with a sharp eye to character, an awareness of terrain and background and a sense of humor." — Henry Steele Commager. Quadrangle Paperbacks, 308 pp., 11 ill., 15 maps, $1.95.

40. THE CALIFORNIA PROGRESSIVES, by George E. Mowry. Determines the motives and actions of the men in the Progressive movement, and the conditions of their ascendancy and fall. "Will undoubtedly be standard for a long time to come." — American Historical Review. Quadrangle Paperbacks, 344 pp., 4 ill., $2.25.

41. THE COMMERCE CLAUSE, Under Marshall, Taney, and Waite, by Felix Frankfurter, with an introduction and epilogue by Wallace Mendelson. "A brilliant little book . . . the essays impart much wisdom concerning judges in general, the Constitution, and the processes and implications of constitutional interpretation." — The Annals. Quadrangle Paperbacks, 134 pp., $1.65.

42. DREAM AND THOUGHT IN THE BUSINESS COMMUNITY, 1860-1900, by Edward Chase Kirkland. A gracefully expressed account of how business leaders saw themselves, the world they dealt with, and their role in society. "His essays rest on solid research, he writes clearly and to the point. . . His book deserves widespread attention by historians and businessmen alike." — American Historical Review. Quadrangle Paperbacks, 173 pp., $1.75.

43. EVERY MAN A KING, The Autobiography of Huey P. Long, with an introduction by T. Harry Williams. Colorful, flamboyant, fascinating, and rich with useful historical material. "An important political testament that deserves the attention of all serious students of politics." — T. Harry Williams. Quadrangle Paperbacks, 348 pp., 13 ill., $2.45.

44. EXPANSIONISTS OF 1898, The Acquisition of Hawaii and the Spanish Islands, by Julius W. Pratt. Traces the rise, the debate, and the development of the movement for overseas expansion. "Carefully documented, accurate, judicious, and unusually well-written." — American Historical Review. Quadrangle Paperbacks, 393 pp., $2.25.

54. ROAD TO REACTION, by Herman Finer, University of Chicago, with a new introduction by the author. "Brilliant, persuasive volume . . . dissects and examines Mr. Hayek's thesis and exposes his fallacies and errors of fact . . . especially convincing — and trenchant — in the sections covering political science." — New York Times. Quadrangle Paperbacks, 228 pp., $1.95.

55. A WORKING PEACE SYSTEM, by David Mitrany, with an Introduction by Hans J. Morgenthau. A classic work. Professor Mitrany is generally recognized the world over as the founder of a rapidly growing movement for the functional development of international organization. Yet his essays have been practically unavailable here. "This is an important contribution to the body of thought and writing on peace theory and practice." — Library Journal. Cloth, 221 pp., $5.95; paper, $2.25.

56. THE ECONOMICS OF DELINQUENCY, by Belton M. Fleisher, Ohio State University, with a Foreword by Morris Janowitz, University of Chicago. A pioneering work, sure to have broad repercussions. "Fleisher systematically applies contemporary economic theory and economic analysis to investigate the magnitudes of economic changes. . . From a practical and policy point of view, Fleisher clearly demonstrates that change in economic position is a core element of the social control of delinquent behavior." — Morris Janowitz. Cloth, 127 pp., $4.50.

A long out-of-print masterpiece . . .

DEMOCRACY AND THE ORGANIZATION

OF POLITICAL PARTIES, by M. Ostrogorski, edited and abridged by Seymour Martin Lipset.

57. Volume I: England

58. Volume II: The United States

"First published in 1902, these two volumes by the distinguished Russian student of politics, Mosei Ostrogorski (1854-1919), are among the few works that can claim with some justice to be indispensable for the understanding of modern democracy in general and American democracy in particular . . . a shrewd historian: he had an unerring sense of relevance, and he knew how to bring the past to life." — Werner J. Dannhauser, The American Journal of Sociology. "Ostrogorski was the first scholar to analyze the general traits inherent in the political parties of the United States and England, and the first to present a foundation for a theory of political party organization and bureaucracy in democracies." — Journal of American History. "The republication of this long out-of-print masterpiece is a major publishing event." — Social Education. "(Ostrogorski's) effort at systematic theory is what so attracted Max Weber to his work . . . one of the major classics of social science scholarship." — Seymour Martin Lipset, in the introduction. Vol. I, England: cloth, 350 pp., $7.50; Vol. II, United States: cloth, 418 pp., $8.95.

"Like Erich Fromm, Williams is a non-doctrinaire student of Marx. . . A highly provocative book. . . Recommended." — Library Journal. "A penetrating contribution to the debate on our national purpose." — American Historical Review. Cloth, 189 pp., $4.50.

The first authoritative, encyclopedic, historical anthology of Russian Philosophy from its origins in the ancient Byzantine tradition to 20th century Soviet and exile philosophers, with new translations and critical and interpretive commentary —

The 3 volume —

RUSSIAN PHILOSOPHY

edited by James M. Edie, James P. Scanlan, and Mary-Barbara Zeldin; with the collaboration of George L. Kline.

— an excellent text and an encyclopedic sourcebook of primary materials for scholars, teachers, and students of Russian philosophy, history, and culture, and for use in all Russian Studies programs and Intellectual History sequences — with important selections appearing here for the first time in translation, and with historical, critical, biographical and interpretive commentary representing the most recent scholarship

"By far the largest English anthology of its kind, and as such fills a serious gap in the field." — Studies in Soviet Thought.

"Brilliantly selected, introduced, edited, and translated." — Ethics.

"Both an excellent text and a good sourcebook." — Slavic Review.

"Lengthy and fascinating anthology. . . Many of the selections appear for the first time in translation." — Review of Metaphysics.

"The only publication of its kind in English. An excellent collection of sources for study of Russian social thought." — Choice.

For the philosopher and the student of philosophy the encounter with this "man-centered" philosophical tradition reveals important implications for recent developments in philosophy. Russian and Slavic studies have grown rapidly in the past few years. Now the need for a comprehensive, readable, authoritative, historical anthology of Russian thought is felt throughout the field.

The 3-volume RUSSIAN PHILOSOPHY is the only publication of its kind in English. The primary materials now available in these three landmark volumes could heretofore be found only in a complete library of books in both English and Russian, expensive and almost impossible to obtain."

RUSSIAN PHILOSOPHY offers 69 selections from 27 thinkers, arranged generally in chronological order, from Gregory Skovoroda, "The Russian Socrates" in the 18th century, to the fateful split of the Slavophiles and the Westernizers, to the most up-to-date statements of Marxist-Leninist dialectical materialism, and the philosophical contributions of the Russian exile philosophers. Lucid, informative commentaries, using the most recent scholarship, introduce each volume, each book, each period, each philosophical movement and each philosopher.

Possessing many unique elements and characteristics that distinguish it from the general development of European philosophy, Russian philosophy is marked by an intensity and an impatience with moderation. The very word pravda contains the dual meaning of truth-justice.

Vol. I: The Beginnings of Russian Philosophy; The Slavophiles; The Westernizers, 434 pp., index, bibliography, $7.50.

Vol. II: The Nihilists; The Populists; Critics of Religion and Culture, 312 pp., index, bibliography, $6.50.

WIND AND SAILING BOATS

by Alan Watts

Here is the absolutely unique book that will enable the small boat sailor to predict and take advantage of very small or very localized changes of wind, speed, and direction which may not affect the whole weather picture but can make all the difference between winning and losing a race.

The author is both an experienced small boat sailor and a professional meteorologist. His book is based upon extensive meteorological research, showing how to anticipate wind changes and use the best tactics. It explains the important and sometimes unexpected effects of obstructions on the wind, and the way in which coasts and shores of various kinds affect the behavior of the wind. Comprehensively illustrated with clear diagrams and with meteorological photographs. A clear, readable, indispensable "member of the crew."

A joint publication of Quadrangle Books and One-Design & Offshore Yachtsman. Large 7-3/8 by 9-3/4 format. Cloth, 224 pp., abundantly illustrated, with diagrams and photographs, $10.00.

87. PERICLES ON 31st STREET, by Harry Mark Petrakis, leading 1965 nominee for the National Book Award and author of the current best-seller, A Dream of Kings. "His Greek-Americans have an energy, an eloquence, a passion, and a heroic sense of the absurd that you could look for around the whole world and not find elsewhere." — Mark Van Doren. "Refreshing indeed are the very human characters in these 16 short stories." — Library Journal. "We are aware of sparkling urgency, of the irresistible push and sizzle of life. We are advised that to live is to be involved in fierce joy. We are also forced to observe that each of us had better beware." — Gwendolyn Brooks, Chicago Sun-Times. Cloth, 213 pp., $4.50.

90. HUMAN RIGHTS AND THE INTERNATIONAL COMMUNITY, The Report

98. THE SANDINO AFFAIR, by Neill Macaulay, University of Florida. Out of the jungles of Nicaragua came the spiritual fore-runner of Fidel Castro. From 1927 to 1933, the bold, dynamic General Sandino masterfully eluded and baffled the U.S. Marines in a country torn by political strife. Bernard B. Fall says about this book: "THE SANDINO AFFAIR has no equal in its field. At a time when the United States may well be committing herself to 'pacification' campaigns from Vietnam and Thailand to Santo Domingo, Macaulay's book is an important contribution to our still scant knowledge of the whole subject . . ." Neill Macaulay is a historian, who was a staff officer in the Cuban Rebel army, and later broke with Castro over the communist issue. Cloth, 320 pp., 16 pp. of photos., endpaper maps, 10 battle maps, $6.95.

1. THE CONTOURS OF AMERICAN HISTORY, by William Appleman Williams, University of Wisconsin, with a new foreword by the author. An original, controversial, and influential definition of America's social, moral, constitutional, and economic development. "A very good book indeed . . . it is quietly reasoned, beautifully ordered, and spirited as hell. It should serve as an antidote to the 'sure we've made mistakes but fewer than anyone else' type of American history." — The Nation. "Here is a loud and lively dissenting voice." — London Times Literary Supplement. Quadrangle Paperbacks, 528 pp., $2.95.

2. THE NAZI SEIZURE OF POWER: The Experience of a Single German Town 1930-1935, by William Sheridan Allen, University of Missouri. Why did the anti-Nazi opposition, so strong in 1930 when the Nazis seemed so weak, finally fail? This is the first book to show how the Nazis succeeded in establishing their power base on a local level, in one prosperous town in Hannover, similar to thousands of towns in Germany. "The most illuminating account of Nazi victory which I have ever read." — A. J. P. Taylor. "A first-rate study of absorbing interest . . . convincing and surprisingly well-written." — Walter Laqueur, New York Review of Books. "An important study." — Choice. "Absorbing account of how the Nazis took over. Totalitarianism has never seemed more subtle, insidious and in the end more terrifying." — Christian Century. "This is very good scientific history. . . The quality of Allen's interpretation is excellent in a hundred vignettes." — American Historical Review. Cloth, 345 pp., maps, $6.95. Quadrangle Paperbacks, 360 pp., maps, $2.45; cloth, 345 pp., maps, $6.95. You may make the cloth edition your FREE choice.

3. THE DESTRUCTION OF THE EUROPEAN JEWS, by Raul Hilberg. Recognized as the monumental, definitive history of the greatest process of human destruction in the history of man — the only study based on the entire un-indexed collection of Nuremberg documents. It covers all of Europe, unique in depth and scope and narrative clarity. A sourcebook for the specialist, analysis for the theorist, and a story without parallel for the general reader. "This is an impressive work." — Gerhard L. Weinberg, American Historical Review. "[I] hardly thought, on taking it up, that I should be unable to put it down . . . a careful, analytic, three-dimensional study of a social and political experience unique in history." — H. P. Trevor-Roper. Cloth, 788 double-column pp., $9.95. Quadrangle Paperbacks, 800 double column pages, $3.95; cloth, 788 double-column pages, $9.95.

4. IN THE NAME OF SCIENCE, by H. L. Nieburg, University of Wisconsin. Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., in Life, called this book "A powerful, original examination . . . an explosive book . . . should make the nation wonder whether it really wants, after all, to abdicate the future to the Contract State." Here is a careful, highly readable documentation of how — in the name of science, security, and national prestige — a small clique of private interests and government agencies is misusing America's scientific brainpower, ravishing our national resources, and siphoning off tax billions, at the peril of vital national needs. Even more alarming is the evidence that these privileged interests are endangering the future of the nation itself, as they continue to bypass democratic institutions and grow larger. "A candid, thorough and important study . . . hard, tough writing." — Science. "The subject matter of the book is of prime importance . . . Highly recommended." — Library Journal. "One of the most important works of non-fiction published in 1966." — Christian Science Monitor. "Ought to be read by everyone who seeks to understand what is going on in our country." — The Christian Century. Cloth, 448 pp., $7.95.

5. AGENTS OF DECEIT: Frauds, Forgeries and Political Intrigue among Nations, By Paul W. Blackstock, University of South Carolina, with an appendix by George F. Kennan. "An especially timely and important book. . . In impressive detail numerous telling forgeries and frauds are examined. . . The fact that the examples in this collection originated in or were directed against Russia or the Soviet Union makes the work all the more useful and worthwhile. A lucid, erudite, well-written exposition of honest research. . . The most fascinating section of the book concerns the Penkovsky Papers. . ." — Robert G. Deindorfer, Saturday Review. "This present volume forms an interesting companion to the author's earlier The Strategy of Subversion. . . George Kennan contributes an interesting appendix." — Library Journal. Cloth, 315 pp., $6.50.

6. THE END OF AMERICAN INNOCENCE, A Study of the First Years of Our Own Time, 1912-1917, by Henry F. May. A brilliant interpretation of the years in which the U.S. underwent a drastic revolution in taste, manners, morals, and ideas. "In restoring this lost episode and securing its place in history, May has succeeded where historians of more conventional interests and preoccupations have erred or nodded." — C. Vann Woodward, American Historical Review. "The book gives May a place with the best of our cultural historians." — Granville Hicks, Saturday Review. Quadrangle Paperbacks, 413 pp., $2.45.

7. COMPETITIVE PRESSURE AND DEMOCRATIC CONSENT, by Morris Janowitz, University of Chicago, and Dwaine Marvick, University of California. A classic study, re-analyzing the survey findings of the 1952 Presidential election, presenting political criteria for evaluating sociological and psychological election data. The implications of this work have made it especially important in recent years. Cloth, 2nd edition, 123 pp., $3.50.

8. WHAT IS PHENOMENOLOGY?, 4 Basic Essays by Pierre Thévenaz, edited with introduction by James M. Edie, with a preface by John Wild. This philosophical revolution is just beginning to be felt in America. "The book serves the two-fold purpose of presenting advanced introductions both to phenomenology and to Thévenaz." — Review of Metaphysics. "I cannot think of any brief introduction to phenomenology that is as accurate and well informed." — John Wild, Yale University. Cloth, 191 pp., $5.00; paper, $2.25.

9. SOVIET SOCIOLOGY, Historical Antecedents and Current Appraisals, edited by Alex Simirenko, University of Nevada. This important collection surveys the early distinguished growth, the decline, and the current rebirth of Soviet sociology. Today there are the beginnings of empirical research and a more honestly critical familiarity with Western works. Among the distinguished contributors are Sorokin, Deutscher, Baron, Marcuse, Labedz, Feuer, Fischer and Wolin. Included are two examples of recent Soviet research. The editor was born in Kiev and came to the United States in 1950. Cloth, 384 pp., $7.95.

A new and important guide for solving parent-child problems . . .

10. GROWING UP WITH CHILDREN, by Maria W. Piers, Department of Pediatric Psychiatry, University of Chicago, and Dean, Chicago Institute for Early Childhood Education. If you are a parent, you can benefit tremendously by sharing in this book's wealth of concrete examples of problem-solving from infancy through adolescence. Its clear focus on finding simple answers in the parent-child relationship makes it unique among books on child-rearing. Dr. Maria Piers is noted for her several highly praised series on national educational television. GROWING UP WITH CHILDREN has been enthusiastically welcomed in professional and educational circles — it is also being excerpted by Parents Magazine, Family Circle, and syndicated through several hundred newspapers. "This book is invaluable for all parents, educators, and all concerned with children. They should read it carefully. For in it Maria Piers combines her deep humanity and her vast experience with her unique art of uncomplicating the conflicts, the difficulties, the problems and the minor and major breakdowns of everyday family life." — René A. Spitz, author of First Year of Life, world renowned authority on child development. Cloth, 288 pp., $5.95.

11. THE SEARCHERS, Conflict and Communism in an Italian Town, by Belden Paulson, University of Wisconsin, with Athos Ricci. How does communism capture the imagination of a town, then a city, finally a nation? A study of a "divided city" only thirty miles from Rome and 75% communist. "An excellent casebook in basic functioning politics, without clichés. It is also a good portrait in camera of contemporary smalltown Italy." — Virginia Kirkus. "Belden Paulson has done a herculean job examining every facet of the town, skillfully interviewing the citizens and taping their stories. The results make for serious and fascinating reading." — Publisher's Weekly. Cloth, 352 pp., $6.95.

45. FAREWELL TO REFORM, The Rise, Life and Decay of the Progressive Mind in America, by John Chamberlain. A classic study. At last the first volume of this invaluable reference tool — THE EXPLICATOR CYCLOPEDIA — is available for students, teachers, and libraries.

Selected by the ALA as one of the fifty best reference books of the year.

THE EXPLICATOR CYCLOPEDIA: Volume I: Modern Poetry, edited by Charles Child Walcutt and J. Edwin Whitesell from the pages of The Explicator magazine.

"In 20 memorable volumes since 1942, the most remarkable venture in scholarly criticism of our time, The Explicator, for all its modesty of format, has instructed students and teachers of literature in the careful, systematic reading of literary texts . . . the magazine has now accounted for a phenomenal body of critical virtuosity. But not all the back issues of this amazing periodical are still available. . . The present volume contains explications of that most demanding body of literature — modern poetry. . . The 200 essays written between 1942 and 1962 will be of great value to specialists in contemporary poetry as well as to the 'mythical common reader' . . . the Cyclopedia must be available in all academic (high school and college) libraries and all but the smallest public libraries." — John R. Willingham, Professor of English, University of Kansas, Library Journal.

Vol. I: Modern Poetry: cloth, 366 pp., $10.00.

92. THE MITCHELL TRIO SONG BOOK. Introduction by Robert Shelton. Music edited by Walter Raim. Illustrations by Stu Gross. Rousing, satiric, sophisticated songs from America's modern minstrels of dissent. Ranging from "John Birch Society" to "Alma Mater" and "12 Days of Christmas." Handsome 9 x 12 format. Cloth, 144 pp., 35 songs, 7 illus., $6.95; paper, $2.95.

93. THE QUIET BATTLE, Writings on the Theory and Practice of Non-Violent Resistance, edited with an Introduction and Afterword by Mulford Q. Sibley, University of Minnesota. From the New Testament to Gandhi, Thoreau to Martin Luther King. "Thought-provoking, controversial book." — Library Journal. "Interesting compendium." — American Sociological Review. Cloth, 390 pp., $5.95.

94. AND THE POOR GET CHILDREN, Sex, Contraception, and Family Planning in the Working Class, by Lee Rainwater, assisted by Karol Kane Weinstein. "A bold example of social reportage . . . by far the most intelligent analysis ever written of the problems which beset planned parenthood." — Robert Gutman, American Sociological Review. "A timely book." — Library Journal. Cloth, 202 pp., $4.75.

95. EQUALITY AND BEYOND, Housing Segregation and the Goals of the Great Society, by George and Eunice Grier. Short, up-to-date and authoritative introduction to the subject." — Choice. 96. THE PUERTO RICANS: Strangers — Then Neighbors, by Clarence Senior, with a foreword by Hubert H. Humphrey. A candid, authoritative picture of our largest immigrating group. "It cannot help but facilitate a solution of the problems these people face when coming to the United States." — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey. "Never loses the reader's interest." — Choice. "This reviewer concurs with Vice-President Humphrey's statement in the foreword." — A. J. Jaffe. American Journal of Sociology. Cloth, 127 pp., illus., $3.50; paper, $1.45.

97. REBELLION IN A HIGH SCHOOL, by Arthur L. Stinchcombe, Johns Hopkins University. An original and unusual investigation, revealing that many major causes of rebellion lie within the educational system itself. "An excellent example of how one can translate meaningful and exciting research in a manner that makes it of great potential value." — David Gottlieb, American Journal of Sociology. "Significant and original." — Harvard Educational Review. Cloth, 240 pp., $5.95.

101. KANT'S PHILOSOPHY, by Moltke S. Gram, Northwestern University. Ten stimulating, exploratory, core essays, the sharpest and most provocative writing in the 20th century on the three crucial problems in Kant's philosophy, with three essays never before translated from the German. Contributors include: Hans Vaihinger, H. J. Paton, Arthur O. Lovejoy, Ernst Cassirer, Heinz Heimsoeth, and Lewis White Beck. Quadrangle Paperback, 320 pp., $2.65; cloth, $8.95.

Available in April, advance orders accepted now . . .

102. THE HISTORY OF THE LABORATORY SCHOOLS, by Ida B. De Pencier. No institution in America has been a greater force in elementary and secondary education than the Laboratory Schools of the University of Chicago, established by John Dewey in 1896. Here is the invaluable history of this still lively and dynamic venture in education. The author draws upon thirty-three years first-hand teaching knowledge and documentary sources. Cloth, 192 pp., illus., $4.95.

103. THE PRIVATE SEA: LSD & THE SEARCH FOR GOD, by William Braden, reporter for the Chicago Sun-Times. The first book to bring together and show the relationships of the two most powerful currents of our day — radical theology and the LSD revolution. The author is a serious student of philosophy and theology. He intensively interviewed the principal theological radicals of our time, and participated in psychedelic experiences which form an essential part of his book. "Nowhere else can we gain such clear access to the mind-set of the 'turn on, tune in, and drop out' cult . . . and the religious dimension of the psychedelic experience." — Martin E. Marty. "I do congratulate you both on the way you write and on your capacity to see the wood from the trees in theology." — Bishop John A. T. Robinson, author of Honest to God. "I marvel at the skill with which you have compressed and clarified my position." — Dr. Thomas J. J. Altizer, leading exponent of the Death of God concept. Cloth, 256 pp., $5.95.

104. THE SOCIALIST PARTY OF AMERICA, A History, by David A. Shannon, University of Maryland. In 1912, there were thirty-three Socialist cities and towns, and American socialism was growing fast. Yet today, almost alone among the Western democracies, the United States has no active Socialist movement. "A good-tempered and careful chronicle of the decline and fall . . . scholarly in tone, objective in approach, and agreeable in style." — Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., New York Times. "Well worth having . . . Professor Shannon's research has been exhaustive, and he writes in the best tradition of academic detachment." — Stow Persons, American Historical Review. "Brilliant scholarship." — Yale Review. "An admirable job." — Norman Thomas. Quadrangle Paperback, 336 pp., $2.45.

106. LAST CHANCE IN EUROPE, Bases for a New American Policy, by Charles O. Lerche, Jr., with a Foreword by Kenneth Thompson, vice president of the Rockefeller Foundation. The work of a deeply troubled scholar and teacher who witnessed first-hand the deterioration of friendly relations between America and Europe. Argues convincingly that the United States must be prepared to change its policies fundamentally, or find itself isolated. The subject is the dominant underlying theme of the American outlook. This last book completed by Charles Lerche highlights the career of a distinguished foreign affairs analyst. Quadrangle Paperbacks, 224 pp., $2.25; cloth, $5.95.
